Discrimination and Politics PLSC 485L Spring 2020

Instructor: Christine Sylvester LNG 77 csylves1@binghamton.edu Office Hours: Thursdays 4-6PM, or by appointment Class:

Thursdays 6:00-9:00PM CW 310 Binghamton University

Course Description

Overview: This course will examine critical questions and debates related to discrimination and political representation (specifically, discrimination based upon ethnicity or culture, gender, religion, sexual orientation, handicap or disease, and age). Building on foundational work in political representation and human rights, this course will study the impact discrimination in its many forms has on representation and using comparative politics cases to examine what steps have been taken to correct past histories of discrimination. Students will learn from both canonical and contemporary works in the field of comparative politics then apply this knowledge to form their own policy responses.

The course begins with a study of the concept of discrimination and how it is impacted by our understanding of citizenship and group membership. Subsequent topics include electoral politics, institutional controls, segregation and discrimination, social movements, immigration and assimilation, campaigns and media, representation, and competition within and among minority groups. Finally, selected contemporary policy issues will be discussed and evaluated. The course goals are 1) to familiarize students with both the theoretical underpinnings of discrimination, human rights, and political representation, 2) identify, explain, and apply the major sources of international human rights law and their defining features, 3) identify, explain, and analyze the major international enforcement mechanisms for international human rights, 4) identify, explain, and analyze the nature and legal characteristics of human rights (individual vs collective; negative vs positive rights; civil and political vs economic and social), 5) identify, explain, and critically analyze the application of human rights law and norms to address human rights violations and abuses, and 6) aid students in developing critical reasoning and presentation skills through real-world policy formation and debates.

Course Requirements

Participation (30%): You will be expected to have completed your reading assignments each week and to actively join in class discussions of them. Attendance is mandatory. Participation cannot be made up, if you don't show up or arrive late your participation for that day will be zero. Mere attendance (showing up but not contributing to discussion) is not enough. You will be graded on the depth and thoughtfulness of your comments not the volume. The two best rules to consider in discussions are "Will this comment further substantive and supportive discussion amongst my classmates?" and "Does this comment provide insight into this or prior week's material?" At the end of each class, if you think you have substantively contributed to the class, hand your instructor a piece of paper with your name, the date, and a detailed note on how you believe you contributed that day. Your instructor will either accept it or decline it. If you have 6 of these by the end of the semester, you get full credit. Less than 6 will result in partial credit. All discussion weeks where slips/participation will be accepted are denoted with (P).

Weekly Assignments and Quizzes (30%): Throughout the course students will complete short assignments or quizzes that relate to the topic of the week. Students will have several quizzes and short written assignments over the course of the semester, either during class or as homework. The quizzes will not be announced in advance. Written assignments will be either announced in class or on MyCourses and must be submitted prior to class on MyCourses using a TurnItIn link (the submission links will close at 6PM on the due date). No assignments will be accepted late or in hard-copy (unless otherwise noted). At the end of the semester, the lowest score will be dropped.

Reaction Papers: Reaction papers are brief responses to the assigned material (2-3 pages). These are opportunities for you to critically and deeply reflect on the readings and ensure you are prepared to discuss them in class. Reaction papers should follow the formatting guidelines for the course and be submitted at the start of class.

Preliminary, Final Briefing Memo and Presentation (40%): Students will draft a policy memo on a topic that relates to the material addressed in this course. The memo should be both descriptive and analytical, meaning the best papers will provide a brief summary of a case/real-world example with sources before applying the theoretical literature. Memos should be approximately 8-10 pages in length and double-spaced. They must also use 12-point Times New Roman font, normal (one-inch) margins, and employ a proper method of citation (both in-text and bibliography). Failure to abide by these formatting requirements will result in a grade deduction (for example, a paper receiving an A will be reduced to an A- etc.). Failure to employ a proper method of citation may be construed as plagiarism and result in disciplinary action. More detailed instructions on memo requirements will be discussed throughout the semester. The best rule of thumb is to pick your case and get writing early.

Students are expected to prepare both a preliminary and final version of their policy memos. Both versions should be complete documents; however, while the preliminary will receive substantial peer and instructor review, the final version is expected to incorporate and apply these reviewer comments with the end product being a thoroughly excellent memo. Electronic copies of both the preliminary and final memo are due prior to class on April 16th and April 30th respectively. Late papers will be penalized by one grade each calendar day they are late including those submitted after class has begun (for example, a paper receiving an A that is submitted 1 day late will receive an A-, 2 days late will receive a B+, etc.).

On April 30th and May 5th, 2020 students will be responsible for presenting their final briefing memo. The format of the presentation is up to each student (for example, PowerPoint, Video, or Prezi) and should be 6-8 minutes in length. For the presentation, you are the expert on your paper topic and should ensure your presentation does a thorough job of explaining your case, its significance, your analysis, policy proposal(s), and conclusions. Presentations will count towards the student's overall final memo grade.

A Note on Missed Presentations. Presentations missed without a valid and prearranged excuse cannot be made up, effectively resulting in a zero. Missing presentation day will greatly reduce your chances of receiving a passing grade for the semester. Please plan accordingly.

Course Schedule

Below is a tentative schedule of topics, readings, and assignments that will be covered in this course. I reserve the right to make changes to the schedule, including dates, and it is the student's responsibility to be aware of these changes. Date changes will be announced well in advance during class or on MyCourses. Readings denoted as (B) will be posted on MyCourses by the instructor, and those denoted as (S) will be the responsibility of the student to locate. Students are encouraged to use Library resources to locate these readings well in advance. All items listed under readings are required (and should be completed before class that day).

General Education Information

N Requirement (Social Science) This course also fulfills a N requirement. Students will learn major concepts, models and issues of political science. They will gain an understanding of the methods used by social scientists to explore social phenomena including, when appropriate to the discipline, observation, hypothesis development, measurement and data collection, experimentation, evaluation of evidence, and employment of mathematical and interpretive analysis.

W Requirement (Writing) This course also fulfills a Harpur College writing requirement. Students will need to show understanding of course materials through formal academic writing. They will need to effectively demonstrate critical thinking by advancing sound arguments with clearly defined hypotheses, arguments, and conclusions all of which must be appropriate to widely accepted practices in the discipline.

General Course Policies and Additional Resources

- 1. MyCourses. Course announcements and selected readings will be posted to the classes MyCourses page. Each student should ensure they have access to MyCourses and check it regularly for updates.
- 2. Attendance and comportment. Class begins at 6PM. Arriving late is disruptive to both the instructor and other students, especially in such a small class. This class is an encouraging and supportive environment and as such students should refrain from disruptive behavior such as side conversations, whispering, or offensive remarks. I reserve the right to ask students to leave if they arrive late or are disruptive.
- 3. Rules governing late submission of assignments. Late weekly assignments will not be accepted. Late briefing memos will be severely penalized. It is your responsibility to ensure that I receive your assignments on time. Excuses, including computer problems, printing troubles, a cold, will not be accepted. The date of presentations is outlined in this syllabus and owing to time limitations cannot be rescheduled.
- 4. Grading Scale: Your semester grade will be computed on a 100-point scale as follows: 95-100 = A; 91-94 = A-; 88-90 = B+; 84-87 = B; 81-83 = B-; 78-80 = C+; 74-77 = C; 71-73 = C-; 65-70 = D; 0-64 = F. You will receive a letter grade on your research paper which corresponds to numeric grades as follows: A = 100; A- = 94; B+ = 89; B = 85; B- = 82; C+=79; C = 75; C- = 72; D = 67; F = 50. You will receive a numeric grade on participation, quizzes, assignments and presentations.
- 5. Grade appeals must be submitted in writing. If you have a concern regarding your grade on an assignment you may write a one-page letter explaining your specific concerns and request your assignment be regraded. This letter should be submitted to me in hard-copy along with the original graded assignment within one week of the assignment having been returned to the class. Once I have reviewed and considered your request I will respond in writing. The revised grade may be higher, lower, or the same as your original grade. Under no circumstances will I discuss your grade with you in person.
- 6. Electronic policy. Cell phone use in class is disruptive and discourteous to others, as such, cell phones should be silenced and stored so they are not visible. Students using their cell phones during class will be asked to leave and will be marked as absent for that day. Laptops will be used to aid collaborative work and may only be used when you have been instructed. Students using laptops or tablets outside of these designated times or for purposes other than the task at hand will be asked to leave and marked as absent for that day. No other electronic devices may be used in the classroom and class sessions may not be recorded.

- 7. Disability-Related Equal Access Accommodations. Students wishing to request academic accommodations to ensure their equitable access and participation in this course should notify me by the second week of class. Authorizations from Services for Students with Disabilities (SSD) are required and I encourage you to contact SSD in UU-119 to schedule an appointment with the Director or Learning Disabilities Specialist. Their website (www.binghamton.edu/ssd) includes information regarding their Disability Documentation Guidelines.
- 8. Academic Integrity. Binghamton University provides explicit guidelines in the Student Academic Honesty Code (http://www2.binghamton.edu/watson/about/academic-honesty.html). I expect the work you submit for grading to be yours and yours alone. Not acknowledging another's work with proper references, taking credit for someone else's work, letting your work appear in another student's paper, or fabricating "results" are grounds for failing the assignment and/or the course in addition to any penalty imposed by the university. If you have any questions about what constitutes plagiarism or cheating, please ask me. You may also find the library's tutorials on academic honesty useful to review (Tutorials on academic honesty can be found at (http://library.binghamton.edu/research/tutorials/WebTutorials/web/index.html).
- 9. Resources for Students in Distress. If you are experiencing undue personal or academic stress at any time during the semester or need to talk with someone about a personal problem or situation, I encourage you to seek support. I am available to talk with you about stresses related to your work in my class. However, problems with relationships, family worries, loss, or a personal struggle or crisis may require additional professional support. Binghamton University provides a variety of support resources:

Dean of Students Office: 607-777-2804 Decker Student Health Services Center: 607-777-2221 University Police: On campus emergency, 911 University Counseling Center: 607-777-2772 Interpersonal Violence Prevention: 607-777-3062 Harpur Advising: 607-777-6305 Office of International Student & Scholar Services: 607-777-2510

- 10. Library Resources. The Binghamton University Library offers a wide variety and range of services including research assistance, instruction, user-friendly interfaces, digital scanners and resources sharing. You will be responsible for locating several required readings throughout the semester. If you have not yet had to do this the best place to start is: http://www.binghamton.edu/libraries
- 11. University Tutoring Services. UTS offers free tutoring for undergraduate students at Binghamton University. All UTS tutoring appointments must be scheduled online through TutorTrac at tutortrac.binghamton.edu. Students log in using their PODS username and password. Walk-in tutoring is also available for select courses. If you have any questions about UTS, call 607-777-9235, email uts@binghamton.edu, or visit the website: http://www.binghamton.edu/tutoring.
